GAIN VALUABLE WORK EXPERIENCE WHILE LIVING ABROAD

- » Gain wider business and cultural perspectives
- » Enhance your adaptability and resilience
- » Improve your foreign language skills
- » Increase employability

This internship experience has definitely shaped my outlook towards global careers. Not only was I able to gain some professional experience in a work environment different from what I was used to, but I also experienced a new country and culture. The challenges faced have brought me new connections around the world, which I believe can play a key role to my success in future.

MINOR IN INTEGRATIVE HEALTH (MIH)

WHO

- For non-healthcare undergraduate students (by 2nd last year of degree programme) hoping to gain a deeper understanding and better application and appreciation of current healthcare topics and trends.
- MIH pairs well with majors in CDE, SOC, CHS (e.g., Life Sciences, Pharmaceutical Science, FST, Environmental Studies, Data Science and Analytics/Economics, CNM, Psychology, Social Work, Sociology, PPE, Anthropology, Geography, Global Studies) and even Business (e.g., businesses in health products/equipment/services)

HOW

Courses in MIH are primarily conducted through:

- Team-based projects
- Peer-to-peer learning activities
- Dialogue sessions
- Real-life case studies
- Field trips

WHAT

1. MIH1101: What Impacts Health?
2. MIH1102: Improving Health: Beyond Medicine
3. MIH2201: Barriers to Health
4. MIH2202: The Landscape of Health: Evolving Spaces and Technology
5. MIH3201: Integrative Health Capstone

(Note: All courses are 4 units each. MIH takes minimally 2 years to complete)

WHY

Contribute to Healthier SG through community partnerships with organizations from industry sectors such as:

- Healthcare, MedTech & Pharma
(e.g., Merck, HPB, MOH Holdings, iHiS)
- Design, Architecture and Facilities Management
(e.g., Surbana Jurong, DP Architects)
- Health Consulting
(e.g., IQVIA, Kantar Health, Ernst & Young)
